BURGLARS TOIL HARD, GET $35 IN STORE HERE

Ladders, Trapdoors, Skylights Used To Enter Uptown Shoe Shop.

LONG AND TEDIOUS JOB

Chisel Opens Metal Door, 400 Pound Safe Opened by Industrious Yeggs.

In what police termed the most well-planned robbery that has come to their attention recently, burglars last night entered the Merit Shoe Co. store at 115 South Main street and after chiseling open a 400-pound safe, left undetected with a loot of about $35.

The break-in was discovered at 7:30 a. m. today by Harry C. Reed of 226 Mark street, manager of the store. He immediately informed police and their investigation uncovered the ramifications the intruders went through to gain entrance to the store.

The time of the burglary was fixed between 10:30 last night, when the display lights at the front of the store are turned off, and this morning when the break-in was discovered. Police thought it likely that the burglary was planned for last night to coincide with the half-holiday sale held yesterday. Luckily, receipts for the day had been banked at the noon closing hour, Manager Reed said.

Started On Fire Escape

As police reconstructed the method of entrance the burglars first went to the second floor roof of the building by climbing a fire escape located in an alley at the rear. The fire escape touches the ground at a point almost on the sidewalk, beside the Bever & Hudson Cigar Store on West Center street.

After making their way to the roof the burglars had access to several skylights and trapdoors, leading to the second floor above the shoe store. They opened an unlocked window in the third floor of the adjoining Marion County Bank building. From rooms here they took two short ladders being used by paperhangers.

The ladders were wired together with a short length of copper tubing. Then a small trap door, about 18 inches wide and 30 inches long, was pried off and the makeshift ladder was suspended through the roof. A section of lead pipe was placed across the top of the trap door to hold the ladder.

Reach Second Floor

Climbing down the ladder the burglars reached the second floor, immediately above a vacant room at the rear of the shoe store. From this point a wooden stairway leads to the first floor, but again the path was blocked, this time by a metal covered door which was bolted both at the top and bottom.

The door was jimmied open and sufficient force used to pull staples completely out of the frame.

The door leads into the stockroom and manager's office of the shoe store, which is connected with the front of the store by an open archway. The safe had been located underneath a counter just inside the front entrance to the store.

It was removed to the rear stock room, which led authorities to believe that more than one person participated in the break-in. To move the 400 pound safe, it was almost necessary to lift it from beneath the counter. Marks on the floor led police to assume that the safe was then rolled down the aisle of the sales room to the stockroom.

Badly Damaged

The entire one side together with the top portion of the metal front of the safe was chiseled away. It was necessary for the burglars to break away a two-inch concrete lining inside the first sheet of metal to remove the lock. The removal of the lock permitted the door to open and an inside cash drawer was also jimmied.

Aside from the money taken from the safe, nothing else was reported missing. Several dollars worth of stamps and a drawer containing money laid aside for sales tax coupons, all in the same room in which the safe was opened, remained undisturbed.

PAROLE LEADER DOUGAN OUSTED

Mrs. Margaret Allman Orders Removal for "Unbecoming Conduct."

HIS TERM ENDED AUG. 16

Board Chairman's Name Linked With "Parole Broker" by Newspapers.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 26—Mrs. Margaret Allman, state welfare director, said today she had ordered removal from the parole board of Chairman Leland S. Dougan of Columbus.

The welfare director said Dougan was removed with the consent of Gov. Martin L. Davey for "conduct unbecoming a member of the parole board."

Acting after a conference in the governor's office, she told newsmen the welfare director had the constitutional power of removal after expiration of a board member's term.

Dougan's term expired Aug. 16, while the activities of the parole board were under investigation of Atty. Gen. Herbert S. Duffy.

Dougan's name was linked with that of Arch W. (Stub) Naylor, reputed "parole broker," in a series of newspaper articles relating to the Ohio parole system.

Atty. Gen. Duffy, after a secret investigation of several weeks, advised Gov. Davey that Dougan's reappointment to the board would be "inimical to the best interests of Ohio," but did not disclose any results of his inquiry.

Parole board members are appointed by the welfare director with the consent of the governor.

Charles Heslop of Newark and Charles Sharpe of Ravenna, following a conference with the governor last night, said the executive did not mention any inclination to replace members of the board other than Leland S. Dougan, whose term expired recently and whom Davey had said he would not reappoint.

Mrs. Allman declined to disclose the basis for her removal order but authoritative state house sources said at least two cases were involved.

One of these was described as concerning Clay Miller, a former penitentiary guard, convicted of attempting to smuggle a pistol to a prisoner. Members of Miller's family complained to Dougan, one reliable source said, that they paid sums of money to Naylor for Miller's release, but that the board chairman took no action.

In the other case, the same source said, a check given to a parole officer and indorsed subsequently by Naylor was turned over to the board chairman, but the matter was not investigated.

Governor Davey declined comment, but it was learned he would not approve appointment of a successor to Dougan until the attorney general's investigation of the board was completed.

faction I mean a number of citizens, whether amounting to a majority or minority of the whole, who are united and actuated by some common impulse or passion or of interest adverse to the permanent and aggregate interests of the community. . . .

. . . "It is vain to say that enlightened statesmen would be able to adjust . . . clashing interests and render them all subservient to the public good. Enlightened statesmen will not always be at the helm. . . . When a majority is included in a faction, the form of popular government . . . enables it to sacrifice to its ruling passion or interest, both the public good and the welfare of other citizens. To secure the public good against the danger of such a faction, and, at the same time to preserve the spirit and form of popular government, is . . . the great object to which our inquiries are directed.

..."A pure democracy can admit of no cure for the mischiefs of faction. A common passion or interest will, in almost every case, be felt by a majority of the whole; a communication and a concert result from the form of government itself; and there is nothing to check the inducements to sacrifice the weaker party or an obnoxious individual. Hence it is that such democracies have ever been spectacles of turbulence and contention; have ever been found incompatible with security and the rights of prosperity; and have, in general, been as short in their lives as they have been violent in their deaths."

Other Similar Views

To these quotations could be added innumerable others. The parents of American democracy never advocated mass rule or the will of the majority as the final and sole authority. The whole conception of the masses, or of a majority endowed with some mystic natural right of its own was so obnoxious to Thomas Jefferson that he fought to keep the United States a purely agrarian economy, with government diffused into the hands of local assemblies, where the people, as individuals, could directly govern themselves. To Jefferson the concentration of government power in the hands of a strong central authority would inevitably lead to government, not by the people, but by a horde of officials who would use the peoples' tax money to perpetuate themselves, and to delude the people into thinking that they really functioned through such a bureaucracy. He thus conceived the function of government and stated it in his first inaugural address:

"A wise and frugal government . . . will restrain men from injuring one another, shall leave them otherwise free to regulate their own pursuits of industry and improvement, and shall not take from the mouth of labor the bread it has earned. This is the sum of good government."

And he further advocated:

"The suppression of unnecessary offices, of useless establishments and expense, enabling us to discontinue our internal taxes. These, covering our land with officers, and opening our doors to their instrusions, had already begun that process of domiciliary vexation which, once entered is scarcely to be restrained from reaching successively every article of property and commerce."

Every Person Free

The form of commonwealth which Jefferson envisaged, in which every individual should be free by reason of holding land, and in which government could therefore be reduced to an absolute minimum of restraining men from injuring one another, and maintaining public order, ever developed in this country. Hamilton, with less idealism but a more accurate vision, foresaw more closely the development which actually occurred. Had Jefferson lived and kept his philosophy without fundamental change, he would have favored every measure tending to break up monopolies, restrict the powers of banks and stock exchanges, end land tenancy, and divest big business of special privileges, subsidies and tariff protection, but he could never have been for the wholesale distribution of compensating privileges through the medium of a powerful and highly centralized state kept in power by appeals for support to subsidized masses. To call a system of general state regulation based on majority ratification "Jeffersonian" is a total perversion.

The conception that the majority's ratification of any executive program is the final expression of the democratic principle is therefore, a revolutionary idea. Its adoption will inevitably lead to a change in the spirit and the form of American government. It will necessitate the abolition of the supreme court, in fact, if not in form. It will reduce local government of all kinds to a minimum. It will deprive minorities and individuals of equal rights before the law. It will—that is to say—unless some political technique is worked out which is not, so far, in existence. It will lead either to the "spectacles of turbulence and contention...incompatible with security" which James Madison foresaw, or it will lead to despotism as a refuge from that turbulence. That, at least, has been the result of the principle wherever it has been applied. The appeal to that principle is what Machiavelli recommended to his prince. The German Socialists taught it to Hitler. And Aristotle was familiar with it in the fourth century before Christ. It is revolutionary, but it is not liberal. It is, I believe, deeply reactionary. .

LAWRENCE WRITES ON CAPITAL SITUATION

one of the officials in charge, "will include medical and surgical examinations, including examination in special departments, such as eye examinations, laboratory tests and X-ray examinations. In each case, complete medical and surgical care will be given.

"Hospitalization is to be given in a semi-private room for a period of three weeks during a single illness, without additional charge."

The staff of the new clinic is to be headed by Dr. Henry R. Brown of the tuberculosis division of the veterans administration and it is planned to hire a staff of about six or seven physicians.

The charter of the new organization is not restricted to the employes of the Federal Home Loan Bank board and Home Owners' Loan corporation who are to participate in the group health scheme, but, if successful, the project can be extended to all government employes inside and outside of the national capital. The dues do not include cost of medicines, drugs and surgical appliances nor the expense of dental work, oxygen tanks, radium and deep X-ray treatments, blood transfusions or special nursing service. It is not planned to treat certain types of surgical or nervous disorder cases or to furnish treatment after the medical director recommends confinement in an institution in mental, tubercular, drug or alcohol addiction cases.

The whole experiment, however, beginning now on a small scale, dovetails with reports current last November that the social security board was studying the possibility of adding a national health insurance project as a part of its program. Comprehensive health insurance, of course, would be borne by the taxpayers and it is estimated as likely to cost five per cent of payrolls. The social security board has authority to make research studies on "related subjects" and health insurance is held to be one of these.

The new dealers are looking to pattern their plans on projects in foreign countries, but prominent American physicians, like Dr. Floyd S. Winslow, president of the Medical Society of the State of New York, says of the experiences of the Europeans:

"Many physicians are required to see 40 to 60 patients a day—some average 100. This is far too many. Why do not British doctors complain? It should be remembered that health insurance has existed as a part of the government in England since 1911. British physicians who see its great defects are 'cagey' in their public statements derogatory of a system in which so many physicians and bureaucrats are dependent."

Dr. Winslow also quotes Dr. Jacob L. Moreno, who is an authority on the Austrian experience, as saying:

"No physician is capable of properly treating the large number of patients sent him under sickness insurance. He is forced to evolve some mass production plan of operating his office to run people through his mill as fast as possible. The 'rush' system of handling patients is inevitable. When the technique of getting them in and out fast is perfected, the doctor begins to lose that intangible something which is vital to both himself and his patients — his morale. I do not know any doctor who remained long at this sort of practice in Austria who did not become hardened."

The new deal has not hesitated to tamper with the economic system, to tamper with the judicial system and now is reaching out to tamper with the health system of the country. Inasmuch as the Roosevelt administration has encouraged a group of office-holding lawyers to seek to undermine the American Bar association, it would not be surprising, therefore, if the administration, in order to make some sort of showing of approval by members of the medical profession, encouraged the formation of a rival to the American Medical association to be made up either of doctors ambitious for jobs, or doctors who haven't made good in their communities, who do not have the gumption or initiative to undertake the hazards of private practice, and who prefer instead the "security" of politically-made and bureaucratic jobs. America's death rate, if the southern states where large Negro populations live are eliminated, will be found to be lower than that of any of the countries where government insurance schemes prevail. Likewise four of the leading countries which have the lowest death rates do not have compulsory health insurance. They are Australia, Union of South Africa, New Zealand and Canada. In South American Chile, which has compulsory health insurance, has a death rate of 26 per thousand inhabitants every year, while Argentina has 11 per thousand and Uruguay 10 per thousand, and neither of these last two countries has a government insurance system.

WESLEY WINS, 10-3; HUBER, SHOVEL MEET FOR TITLE TONIGHT

Sunday School No. 1 Champs Add Another Victory at Trinity's Expense.

Salem forfeited to Lee Street.

(GB—Games behind leader).

Wesley's softball team, champions of the No. 1 Sunday school league, added another game to their string of victories last night by walloping the Trinity Baptist club, 10 to 3, at the President field. Wesley had previously clinched the No. 1 circuit title and with last night's win stands three full games ahead of its nearest rival, Epworth.

The Wesley club has earned the right to take part in the "little world series," which softball commissioners hope to get under way some time next week. Members of the commission will meet at 8:30 o'clock tonight at the Y. M. C. A. to formulate plans for the series. Three clubs, the tillist of each of the organized leagues, will be eligible for series competition.

The No. 1 league winner, Wesley, and the No. 2 circuit champs, St. Mary, are definitely eligible for entrance in the series, while the Industrial league's representative hinges on games remaining to be played. Tonight, the league-leading Marion Steam Shovel aggregation will clash with the Huber Co. team at Lincoln park stadium, in a crucial Industrial loop contest.

The Shovel team will have the opportunity to gain the league flag by defeating the Huber team tonight. Should Huber win the contest, it would leave the Shovel team's remaining postponed games as the pennant-deciding contest. The game tonight, a stadium benefit affair, will begin at 6:15 o'clock.

The score by innings of the single game played last night follows:

Wesley	000 440 2—10	15	1
Trinity	012 000 0—3	10	0

Feller's Return By Fanning 16 Cheers Indians

CLEVELAND, Aug. 26 — Connie Mack's seventh-place Athletics trundled into town today to open a three-game series with the Cleveland Indians, who were cheered by Bob Feller's 16-strikeout triumph over the Boston Red Sox.

The Tribe mound nominee was expected to be Denny Galehouse or Mel Harder.

Cleveland split a twin bill with Boston yesterday, 8 to 1, and 2 to 7, and took the series two games to one but it was Feller's sensational return to form which perked up the tribe.

The Iowa farm boy, falling one shy of the major league strikeout record of 17 which he holds jointly with Jerome (Dizzy) Dean, granted only four hits and issued four walks.

His control, after only two days' rest, was giving him the corners and his curve exploded. His speed ball, faster than any time since he injured his arm in early spring, hopped as it neared the plate.

Baseball observers declared it the best-pitched game he has yet delivered and he had two strikes (literally) on nearly every batter.

It was Feller's fourth victory of the season against five losses.

BRICH GIVES HENS ONLY SIX BINGLES; MANSFIELD TRIUMPHS

Geyganites Drop Three Games Behind Red Sox; Meet Fostoria Today.

BY CHARLES HOSTETLER
Star Sports Writer

While Johnny Brich, right-handed Marion moundsman, let the visiting Tiffin Mud Hens down with six hits, his teammates collected 12 safeties to score an 8 to 2 victory over the Hens at Lincoln park yesterday afternoon. It was the fourth consecutive win for the scrappy Geyganites who are not on the coat-tails of the circuit-leading Mansfield Red Sox.

Mansfield, however, turned in two wins in a double bill with Findlay, and as a result added one-half game to its first place margin, bringing its lead to an even three games. Today and Friday, Marion will engage in double-headers, playing at Fostoria this afternoon and entertaining Findlay tomorrow, with the first game starting at 2:30 o'clock.

Mansfield's pair of victories over Findlay yesterday were recorded by counts of 7 to 1 and 6 to 3. The cellar-position Fostoria Red Birds stepped up to floor Fremont in both ends of a similar twin bill winning 5 to 2 and 2 to 0.

Hens Score First

The Hens picked up the first tally of yesterday's contest at Lincoln park, with a lone run in the initial inning. Marion came back to score a pair in the second, and Tiffin succeeded in knotting the count only momentarily, when both teams chalked up single markers in the fourth. The home team's big inning came in the sixth, when with four hits, a walk, stolen base and wild pitch, Geygan's charges chased over four runs.

Except for a slow start, Johnny Brich pitched heady baseball all the way. He was nicked for three runs in the initial inning, but as the game progressed he settled down to steady work. With the exception of two safeties in the fourth and one in the fifth, he blanked the Hens through the remainder of the game. Brich turned in six strike outs and issued but one pass to Hat.

The Geyganites' 12 hits were well scattered, with every member of the club except Pitcher Brich getting at least one safe jingle. Catcher Bill Mulvihill and First Sacker Ted Swed had perfect records at bat. The Marion backstop cracked out a double and single and walked in three trips, while Swed got a pair of singles and two free trips to first, in four attempts.

Swed Scores in Second

Ted Swed scored Marion's first run in the second frame. Going down on a single through second, he took second on Kauffman's sharp hit between third and short. Both runners advanced on Geygan's sacrifice and Swed tallied on a long fly to left field off the bat of Mike Harris. Kauffman scored a moment later when Mulvihill slapped a double down the right field line. The side was retired as Brich fanned.

Swed started the fourth inning by being walked, but was tossed out at second on Kauffmans' infield bounder, the runner being safe at

KENTON MEN SEEK TITLE FOR CROQUET

Special to The Star

KENTON, O., Aug. 26—A tournament to determine the mythical croquet champion of Kenton was under way today with Boyd W. Kirkland and Walter E. Pfeiffer, challengers, playing Fred Fink and his son, Fred Jr., in the opening matches. The event is being conducted under floodlights on the John Biteman course here.

Two Southpaws—Farr, Louis

JAB!
THE DIFFERENCE BETWEEN THOR LEFTS IS THAT TOMMY'S MERELY STINGS—WHILE LOUIS' LEFT HOOK SPELLS FINIS!
FARR SAYS JOE LOUIS WILL SEE A LOT OF THAT BIG LEFT GLOVE—HOWEVER—IF HE GIVES JOE A GOOD OPENING FOR THE BOMBER'S OWN LEFT, THE PARTY SHOULD BE OVER EARLY!

Well, another big international fistic extravaganza is upon us, and don't say we didn't warn you if it turns out to be short and not so sweet.

One Thomas Farr, a Welshman who holds the somewhat dubious honor of being the British empire's heavyweight champion, is the challenger and despite an umbilious build-up, he hasn't made much of an impression on the American fight public. Thomas is over here in the challenger's role on the strength of wins over Max Baer, of all people, and Walter Neusel, a notorious quitter.

Tommy Loughran and Bob Olin, a couple of has-beens both gave Farr more than he could handle a short while ago, only to drop decisions that were so bad that even the British press took exception to the verdicts. Olin, not a great puncher by any stretch of the imagination, draped the Welshman on the canvas no less than three times in 10 heats.

Farr shouldn't go far with the tan thumper if these past fights are any criterion. Louis may not be one of the great champions of all time, but at least he can punch much harder than Olin ever could.

So we will climb out on an already overburdened limb, and select Louis to put the Welshman to sleep early in the evening.

Farr Given Good Chance By Himself, Lone Writer

BY GAYLE TALBOT
By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Aug. 26—Tommy Farr, the sour citizen from Tonypandy, didn't need a crystal gazer or anybody else to tell him is Monday going to be a big day in his life when he climbed out of bed down at Long Branch, N. J. this morning.

Some time after 10 p. m. Monday night, something very big is going to happen to Tommy. If it doesn't ruin. Either he's going to get splattered all over the Yankee stadium infield by Joe Louis, an eventuality ardently desired by most of those who know Tommy well, or he's going to come out of the ring a rich man.

If he escapes the fireballs Louis throws at him for fifteen rounds, the Welshman might go back to bed Monday night the new champion. Outside of Farr himself, however, the only man around town who came right out and picked the pugnacious challenger to lift the crown was a visiting British sports writer.

He had been off the boat only a few hours, though, and some thought he might have confused Joe Louis slightly with John Henry Lewis, champion of the same color but with much less dynamite in his dukes.

With this one important exception, opinion was well-nigh unanimous that Farr, the old carnival scrapper with the disposition of a turpentined tomcat, would get his come-uppance somewhere between the third and eighth rounds. The betting has been around 3 to 1 for the last couple of days that Louis, the youngest heavyweight champion ever, will win his first title defense by a knockout.

Nobody has paid much attention to the pledge of eye-witnesses that Farr isn't anywhere near the handsomic he has looked in training. They don't much care how good he might be, to tell the truth. Those who worship at the shrine of Joe Louis' punch don't much care about anything so far as can be discerned with the naked eye, they've forgotten completely what Max Schmeling did to Joe.

Monday's bout should gross a gate of about $250,000 and attract some 30,000 customers.

The literature from the rival camps has related, respectively, that Louis was walloping his sparring partners, knocking out two and three of them on special feast days, and that Tommy Farr was getting madder and madder at his manager, at his press agent, and at everybody, in fact, except Shirley Temple. She didn't visit the camp.

Whole front rows of veteran fight men have watched the Welshman work out and have come away mystified. They concede him a good left, a world of rugged endurance and an aggressive disposition to say the least. But he has looked wide open for a right, and maybe a left, and he hasn't looked like an individual who would try to play hide-and-seek with Louis like Bob Pastor did even if he knew how.

"Sure as he comes in at Joe, he'll get knocked out," said Jack Johnson, the only previous Negro champion. "Joe still hasn't learned much. A boy who boxes with him and stays away will beat him every time."

Dempsey, Braddock and Baer said the same thing, and they haven't had any thanks from Farr yet. Max Schmeling, who will be at the ringside, was plain disgusted.

Braddock offered Farr some consolation even if the worst happens.

"If Joe catches him right, he'll never feel it," said Jim, who made the mistake of trying to swap punches with the Negro. "I didn't know anything about the last two he hit me."

Only the formalities of weighing in at noon at the boxing commission remained to be complied with. Louis was expected to do around 198, with the challenger five or six pounds better.

BOB FELLER FANS 16 RED SOX IN FINEST PITCHING OF 1937

Tribe Wins, 8-1, Then Loses Nightcap, 7-2, to Boston Club.

By SID FEDER
Associated Press Sports Writer

A couple of startling performances in the American League nearly took the spotlight yesterday. For one, there was Bobby Feller, fanning 16, allowing four hits and hurling the Indians to an 8-1 victory over the Red Sox in the opener of a twin bill. The nightcap of which went to the Bostons, 7-2. For another, there was a major league record equaled when the Tigers' outfield didn't have a fielding chance as the Detroits drubbed the Athletics 10-4. Feller's pitching was his best this year.

But the National League race was the thing. In fact it may come pretty close to being decided right in the Giants own Polo Grounds during the next week. Although only two games separated the Cubs and Giants, the rest of the first division—the Cas House gang and the belting Bucs—are coming up fast on the outside, with only eight games separating the top from fourth place.

The Cubs met the enemy—and couldn't get away from them.

Even if they'd been in the next county, it's doubtful if those Chicago clouters could have gotten the Giants out of their hair yesterday, as they blew both ends of their doubleheader with the second-place New Yorkers.

The National League race seemed headed today for a photo finish, with enough rough riding to make it look like a rodeo, and with the Pittsburgh Pirates and St. Louis reviving Cardinals the outsiders that may decide it.

Such being the case, the four-game series the Pirates opened with the Giants in a twin bill today assumed the importance of a motor in an automobile. If the Bucs, who belted the Bees, 6-0, behind the continued classy filing of young Rues Bauers yesterday, can get over the habit of "stooging" for the still crippled Giants, there's going to be a lot

SNATCHES OF SPORTS

BY EDDIE BRIETZ
By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Aug. 26—Did the Giants take some of the starch out of the Cubs' sails. Seems the University of Florida beat South Carolina to those football dugouts by about eight years. Joe Jacobs, loyal little manager of Max Schmeling, isn't exactly in what the boys call "the chips," but he bought 26 ringside seats for Farr and Louis to pass around among guys who have done him favors in the last year.

Bill Robinson, the Negro tap dancer, has been a special guest at Joe Louis' camp for a few days. His jokes keep Joe in good humor. Dorothea Lawrence, the opera star, who goes in for archery, is trying to steam up the American Olympic committee to foster an archery championship in the 1940 Olympics.

In the Eddie McGeever-Carl (Red) Guggino lightweight bout here the other night, the referee and the judges reversed themselves twice. First they said McGeever won. Somebody hollered and they switched to Guggino. Somebody else yelled and they went back to McGeever. By this time everybody else had left the hall, so the decision stood.

Some big league writers are boosting Oscar Melillo of the Red Sox as manager of the St. Louis Browns next year. Visiting big shots here for Louis and Farr included Tom Gallery and Herman Taylor, Los Angeles and Philadelphia promoters. Taylor will be recalled as the guy who actually brought $1,000,000 in cash to New York to guarantee a Jim Braddock-Joe Louis fight in Atlantic City. This is no gag—We saw the dough, and never wanted to turn bandit so badly in our life. Charlie Grimm calls Joe Medwick of the Cards the best hitter the National league ever produced and we hope Rogers Hornsby doesn't feel hurt.

RED BIRDS, TOLEDO, MILLERS BATTLE FOR $4,000 TITLE PURSE

Top Place Columbus Sinks Kansas City To Remain Half Game Ahead.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Aug. 26 — Judging from the way they are battling down the stretch, neither the Columbus Red Birds, Minneapolis Millers or the Toledo Mud Hens have the slightest notion of settling for anything less than the winners' 34,000 share of the American association's $12,000 player pool.

The second place club will whack up $2,000 of the purse, and the next two will get into the playoff, with a chance of meeting the powerful Newark Bears of the International league in the "Little World Series." But the secondary awards apparently are not very attractive to the Birds, Millers and Hens who were all covered by a half game in today's standings.

Columbus retained its half-game lead over Minneapolis and Toledo last night by whipping the Kansas City Blues, 4 to 1. The Millers and Mud Hens remained deadlocked in second place by dealing out beatings to Indianapolis and Milwaukee, respectively.

The Red Birds conquered Kansas City through a combination of Enos Slaughter's hitting and Max Macon's effective pitching. Slaughter slugged out a homer and three singles to drive in three of the winner's four runs, while Macon kept seven hits apart in racking up his 20th victory of the season. Marvin Breuer was the victim of Columbus' 10-hit attack.

Minneapolis landed 14 hits to whip Indianapolis 10 to 1.

Toledo staged another late rally to defeat Milwaukee, 10 to 6, and keep pace with the Millers.

St. Paul and Louisville split a night doubleheader, the Saints winning the opener, 4 to 1, behind Art Herring's five-hit pitching, and the Colonels taking the second game, 4 to 2, in seven innings.

5,000 Jam Streets To See Hobby Show Week Events

Ideal weather and a real attraction in unusually fine window displays and street dancing combined last night to draw a crowd estimated conservatively at 5,000 persons into the business section for the third night of the Marion Hobby club's fourth annual Hobby and Homecoming week.

Throngs milled on South Main street where street dancing held sway from 5:30 to 11, and sidewalks were full all along the area of window exhibits. The esplanade, sidewalk and steps of the west side of the courthouse were literally packed with the audience viewing the second of a series of three preliminary amateur talent contests. There were more than 450 taking part in the round and square dancing.

Martha Lewis, vocal and piano, Beulah Rae Bull, guitar, and Helen Crissinger of Marengo, tap dancer, won first, second and third places in the talent contest, in the order named. Judges were selected from the crowd.

The third and last of the preliminary contests will be conducted tonight at 7:30 at the same place.

Talent entered follows: Meeker string quartet composed of Buster Singer, Bobby Hudnall, Wilford St. John and Foy Shoemaker; Bernard Wisebaker, tap dancer; Julie Tombs, tap dancer; Gene Andrews, tap dancer; Alice Williams, tap dancer; John and Richard Moore, instrumental; Betty Bowman and Betty Brady, instrumental.

Winners tonight will vie Friday night with the successful contestants of Tuesday and Wednesday nights, for first, second and third awards totaling $10. The amateur talent contests have been the responsibility of a committee headed by R. W. Brown.

Roy Gottschall and his committee, responsible for what are considered the finest window displays in the history of Hobby and Homecoming weeks, expected to complete their survey of the windows and place "Honorable Mention" cards today. The cards will remain on the chosen exhibits through Sunday.

Financing of the week's gala celebration has been handled by Timothy R. Fahey and the general committee has been headed by Paul Reynolds.

BRICH GIVES HENS ONLY SIX BINGLES

first. Kauffman advanced on Geygan's single and took third, when Harris hit the ball down the right field line to be tagged out at first. Bill Mulvihill was walked intentionally, filling the bases, and Brich worked the opposing moundsman for a free ticket, to shove Kauffman across. On an infield grounder, Geygan was tossed out at home to end the inning.

Kauffman Starts Spree

Karl Kauffman's war club, which has been playing a big part in Marion's scoring rallies during the past several weeks, went into action to start the sixth inning scoring spree. Kauffman singled to right-center and stole second. After Geygan fanned and Harris walked, Bill Mulvihill's single scored Kauffman. Brich's infield grounder advanced both runners, but the Marion hurler was out at first. Buster Stiewe added a right field single to the scoring column, shoving Harris and Mulvihill across the plate. Stiewe went down to second on the throw-in and took third on a wild pitch to score as Eader sent a single down first base line. Eader was stranded as Platek flied to deep left.

Marion completed its scoring with another run in the seventh, registered on singles by Swed, Kauffman and Harris. The rally was cut short by a fast double-play and the quick work of Catcher Tighe in picking off Harris on his attempted steal to second.

The box score follows:

STATE MARKS HIGHWAYS HERE

Using Double Line Plan in Effort To Decrease Traffic Accidents.

Marking of state highways in Marion county and generally in Ohio with white double center lines is now under way as the latest step of the Ohio department of highways to promote greater traffic safety, according to an announcement from Columbus today.

Crews of men working under the route office at district headquarters in Delaware have been painting the main roads in Marion county for several weeks, Herbert R. Krebs, resident engineer in Marion, said. He has not been informed as to the complete list of state roads which will be marked, but said considerable marking has already been done on Route 23, mostly south, and on Route 36 S.

The double white center lines are to be applied eventually on all pavements 16 feet or more in width where there is limited sight distance on curves, turns and at crests of grades; on center lines of four-lane pavements, at approaches to railroad crossings and at approaches to intersections.

The lines, which are being applied with special machines, are parallel, each three inches wide with a space of four inches between. Dashed lines are being used in some instances.

State Director John J. Jaster Jr. said he is confident they will tend to prevent collisions and will result in a better flow of traffic generally.

A study of accident reports by the department for the first six months of 1937 showed 45 per cent of the 8,948 accidents occurred either on curves, turns, intersections or on hills.

Motorists are warned by the department never to cross the double center lines as they mark stretches where it is risking death to overtake and pass the car ahead. Dashed lines may be crossed with caution.

"Double white lines are a plain warning not to cross," Mr. Jaster said. "If motorists obey the center line markings, not attempting to pass vehicles ahead, an appreciable reduction in automobile collisions is bound to result."

Your Health

BY DR. R. S. COPELAND

Pupil's Health.

Thousands and thousands of school children are now on their summer vacations. They are pleased to be free from the daily routine of the school room. But the parents must not forget that this is the time of the year when the child should receive a complete physical examination.

I urge this, not alone for the physical welfare of the child. It is a well known fact that many a poor school report is caused by something besides lack of intelligence on the part of the youngster. It may be influenced largely by certain physical defects. For example, many children suffer from undernourishment and malnutrition and, in consequence, are prevented from making normal mental progress.

It is an astonishing fact that many children with marked signs of malnutrition come from homes that can readily afford an abundance of good food. The trouble with such children is that they eat too much candy, pastry and other non-essential foods between meals and, of course, have no appetite at table for the really important foods. The necessity for a well-balanced, varied diet cannot be overstated.

In addition to the state of his nutrition, the child's sight and hearing should be tested. Often the child with poor sight has difficulty in his work and may be totally unable to see what the teacher writes on the blackboard. His failure to progress is too often attributed to laziness, indifference and inattention, when, as a matter of fact, there is a physical foundation for the whole trouble.

Impairment in the hearing makes it difficult for the child to hear what the teacher has to say. When the defect is overlooked, it will be seen how such a handicap quickly lands the child in the backward group. Once these defects are recognized and the necessary measures taken to overcome them, the child's work immediately improves.

This is the time of the year for the removal of enlarged and diseased tonsils. When a child suffers from frequent attacks of tonsillitis, a great deal of valuable school time is lost. The summer is the ideal time to get rid of the trouble.

A visit to the doctor now will insure correction of all bodily defects. It will do much to guard against certain diseases, and will go far to insure the child good health. When vacation is over, he will return to school better fitted for his work.

IT'S ODD But It's Science

BY HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Editor

BOSTON—George H. Welch of Northwestern university here says in Nature that the normal human eye can see 900,000 different colors.

To believe this it is necessary to look at a Tschemes-Ebbinghaus double pyramid, and those gifted persons who can do so will realize that in sunsets they "ain't seen nothing."

The pyramid is a mathematical method of plotting the total number of colors possible to see. When a scientist gets right down to the facts the eye sees three things in color.

First is brilliance, and there are 600 different degrees of brilliance, Mr. Welch says, which the eye can see. Second is the hue, and there are 150 of those. Third there is saturation, the quality which makes one color stand out more vividly than the other. There are 220 degrees of saturation.

The combination of all these adds to 940,000 colors.

DEMOLAY MEMBER IS GIVEN AWARD

Sylvester Lucas Honored; Youths Speak on Pilgrimage to France.

The presentation of a representative DeMolay award to Sylvester Lucas and talks on their recent pilgrimage to Molay, France, by Harold Callahan and Bob Wiant Jr., were highlights of a meeting of Marion Chapter Order of DeMolay, No. 288, last night.

The occasion was a social meeting at the Center tearoom on South Main street, with 30 members present. Lunch was served.

The award, which is given members of the order in recognition of general excellence in DeMolay work, was presented Lucas by Earl T. Smart, head of the chapter.

Callahan and Wiant are two of 36 DeMolay "boys" in the United States to make the pilgrimage to Molay, France, the birthplace of Jacques DeMolay, founder of the order, the latter part of June and early July. One of the outstanding events of the trip was the dinner given by the undersecretary of France in their honor, they said. The dinner was the first ever given by the government of France in honor of a non-diplomatic group they explained, and the city was the first pilgrimage made to the birthplace of the founder by a group from this country.

CHILD INJURED IN CALEDONIA MISHAP

The finger was badly smashed when it was caught in the door of an automobile at the Taylor home. The child was brought to the hospital at 9:10 last night and the operation was performed immediately. It was probable she would be released this afternoon, the hospital reported. She is the daughter of Lausinea Boyer of Columbus.

PATTERN 4457

The Stars Say—

For Thursday, Aug. 26

A PARTICULARLY eventful and memorable day is presaged from the major operations of the planets. An element of the sudden and surprising as well as of the intriguing and fascinating will permeate all the affairs. Radical influences may culminate in unexpected moves, changes or rearrangements, possibly in affiliation with new interests or with large corporations, political or diplomatic circles or secret societies. All will have a far-reaching effect on the future, with promising and possible adventures of a very exciting and pleasant nature. Those whose birthday it is may be assured of a rather revolutionary trend in the affairs which may have a memorable influence on the life and its future. Matters of major importance loom, with "big business" and capital interested. In transactions be wise with insurance, patents, etc., and be alert to intrigue. Sudden trips, plans and very lucrative combinations seem to be paramount by novelty and intrigue. A child born on this day may have an adventurous, romantic, dramatic, creative and prosperous life, probably in the public eye and with the acclaim and support of those in high places.

WAR NEWS NIPS STOCK PRICES

Losses Up to Four Points Slightly Reduced After Selling Splurge.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Aug. 26—More disturbing war news from the far east, coupled with adverse domestic developments, put the skids under today's stock market.

The ticker tape lagged a minute or so behind floor dealings for the first time in months at the height of the selling rush. Offerings dried up and the pace slowed, however. Extreme losses of fractions to four or more points were reduced here and there near the fourth hour.

Inspiring the slide, brokers said, was the shooting of the British ambassador near Shanghai; Japanese threats to include neutral shipping in the blockade of the China coast; possibility of a strike following break-down of railway wage negotiations, and signs of waning confidence in a brisk business upturn this fall.

Commodities displayed rising tendencies. U. S. government securities were lower and corporation bonds mixed.

Prominent in the share retreat were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Republic, Youngstown Sheet & Tube, Sloss-Sheffield, National Steel, American Steel Foundries, American Rolling Mill, Baltimore & Ohio, General Motors, Chrysler, Goodrich, International Harvester, Westinghouse, and American Locomotive.

Although the railway picture was far from bright, some observers were still hopeful of a compromise with the brotherhoods similar to the agreement with the non-operating organizations in which a pay-roll boost of about five cents an hour would be granted.

Helping retard the steels was the fear of steelmakers the far eastern hostilities may put a sizeable crimp in sales to the orient. Both China and Japan have been important steel customers.

PARLEY HOLDUP ANNOYS MARTIN

UAW Leader Charges Minority Obstructionists With Delaying Work.

By The Associated Press

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Aug. 26—President Homer Martin of the United Automobile Workers last night charged "minority obstructionists" within the union with holding up the business of the convention.

Pandemonium broke out on the floor when Martin made the accusation in reply to a delegate who said the convention had "reached the saturation point in long-winded speeches, including extemporaneous remarks by the president."

Conflict Reopened

Martin's statement again brought into the open the conflict between "progressives" and "unity" factions over authority vested in the offices of the president and vice presidents.

"Go down and ask the constitution committee why a minority is holding up the work of this committee, why it is seeking to embarrass this convention," Martin declared hotly.

"It is because they are obstructionists using obstructive tactics."

Amid shouts of dozens of delegates trying to get the floor, Martin recognized Walter Reuther, Detroit, known as a "unity" faction leader, after a motion to adjourn was howled down.

"Let's settle down to earth," said Reuther. "I am on the side of the minority regarding many of these reports, but there is no way on earth that a minority can prevent a majority from bringing in a committee report when the majority is ready.

Chair Called Unfair

"I think the chair very unfair and not at all conducive to further harmony when he says a minority is obstructing reports of committees."

Martin finally succeeded in ending debate and adjournment until tomorrow morning followed.

Previously a tendency toward harmony had appeared when delegates adopted a resolution condemning internal politics.

WHEAT PRICES JUMP THEN GO BACKWARD

War News and Strength at Liverpool Lifts Prices Before Realizing Starts.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Aug. 26 — Wheat prices advanced briskly for a time today because the trade was enthusiastic at Liverpool strength and far eastern war news, but reactions later erased the bulk of price gains.

Wheat was almost 2¾ cents a bushel at one time, but a general inclination to lighten commitments coupled with profit taking pulled quotations down to around the day's lowest levels.

Wheat closed at approximately the opening levels, 1¾ to 1⅞ cents above yesterday's finish. September 1.06¾@1.06¾. December 1.08⅛@1.08⅝, and corn finished ⅛ lower to 1¾ cents higher. September 99⅛, December 83⅝@83½.

Henry H. Stauffer of Edgerton, O., has been appointed to and accepted the position of biology and world history teacher in Senior High school. This had been vacant caused by the resignation of Kenneth Winebrot early in the summer.

Jean Leavenworth of Defiance, O., has accepted the kindergarten position at the East school building. She has been teaching in the Bryan, O., schools. The vacancy was made when Miss Viola Delph was transferred to the grade position vacated by Naomi Hill McJunkin.

Another teacher appointed this week is James Snyder who resigned a position at Monroe, O., to accept the Industrial Arts position in Junior High school. This position was made vacant only a few days ago when D. D. Montoya resigned.

FEDERAL SOIL PROGRAM PROGRESSES IN COUNTY

Conservation Field Workers Expected To Finish Next Month; Job Now 75 Per Cent Complete.

Fifteen field workers in the federal soil conservation program in Marion county are expected to complete their task of checking approximately 1,800 farms early next month, officials of the county soil committee said today. It was estimated the checkers are 75 per cent finished now, having begun their work the first week of this month.

Work is under way in all townships, one man to a township. Daily reports of the farms inspected are made to the office of County Farm Agent S. L. Anderson, where eight officials and assistants are assembling the reports for submission to the state soil office in Columbus this fall.

Most of the farms in the county participating in the program were accurately measured in 1936, a fact which will result in completion of the 1937 program several weeks ahead of last year's. Checkers inspect each farm, marking down acreages of soil conserving and depleting crops on their maps and noting other soil building practices.

Details of Work

The office force, in addition to compiling the reports on farms approved by the state office and submitting the statistics to Columbus, carries on all supervisory work and does some educational work. The computation of final cash benefits which are paid to each participating farmer for his work is done at the state office.

A second check of Marion county farms will be made in October, officials said, to inspect special soil building practices which have been inaugurated. These include liming, new seedings, terracing, reforestation, building of dams and similar practices. No attempt is being made this year to pay on the basis of quality of the work done, although amounts of materials used and extent of the soil building projects must meet certain standards of the conservation program, officials said. Liming, for example, is paid for in proportion to the amount of lime applied per acre.

1938 Plans Pending

No plans have been made as yet for the 1938 soil program but are expected to be formulated shortly. A state meeting was held recently at Columbus to discuss future programs but none of the Marion county officials attended.

In connection with the theory behind the federal program, one county soil official today commented on the possibility of shifting to a land use basis instead of a crop control basis, such as is now used for the most part. He said an ideal method of computing benefits would be to pay entirely on the basis of the amount of soil conserving practices adopted by the farmer, without regard to reduction of soil depleting crops such as corn.

Several economists have discarded the plan, not because of its value, but because of the apparent difficulty which its operation would require. Different programs would have to be set up for various regions in the nation, entailing a heavy overhead, he pointed out.

High Earnings Possible

Marion county farmers can earn approximately $270,000 this year through the soil conservation program, according to estimates made the first of this year. The tentative payment for shifting soil depleting crops or for "not growing them" is $7.44 per acre. Soil conserving crops also pay, beets giving $3 an acre, for example. Shifting of soil conserving crops into land formerly used for soil depleting crops pays $3.72 per acre. Farmers may shift only part of their crops, however.

In addition they are paid for soil building practices such as liming, new seedings and reforestation and can earn as much as 360,000 this year from this source. Payment figures stated above are tentative, officials said.

DIXIE PLANTER HELD ON PEONAGE CHARGE

Negro Woman Found Chained In Cabin and Her Husband Threatened.

By The Associated Press

CLARKSDALE, Miss., Aug. 26—Cotton Planter J. S. Decker was under $1,000 bond today upon charges that a Negro woman share-cropper was chained on his farm and her husband threatened with chains to insure payments of a $175 debt.

Department of justice agents investigated the peonage story of the woman, Ethel Davis Wiggins, and her mate, J. W. Wiggins.

Beyond a general denial, the 36-year-old planter withheld comment pending arraignment Monday on a warrant charging the Negroes were held on his 200-acre farm near Rupner, Miss., "in a forced condition of servitude."

Decker posted bond before United States Commissioner W. H. Fitzgerald, Jr.

Sheriff B. H. Dogan said Wiggins complained two weeks ago that his wife was held in chains on Decker's claim the Negroes were in debt to him for $175. The sheriff quoted Wiggins as saying he escaped being chained to a tractor by promising to stay on the farm until the debt was paid.

"I went to the Decker place and in a share-cropper cabin I found the woman chained to a bed with a trace chain," Sheriff Dogan said. "The chain was locked around her neck. She had been there several days. She had been fed well and other than being chained apparently had not been harmed.

"I ordered the woman unchained and brought her and Wiggins off the farm. They left for Clarksdale and I haven't seen them since."

HELP KIDNEYS PASS 3 LBS. A DAY

Doctors say your kidneys contain 15 miles of tiny tubes or filters which help to purify the blood and keep you healthy. Most people pass about 3 pints a day or about 3 pounds of waste.

Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning shows there may be something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

An excess of acids or poisons in your blood, when due to functional kidney disorders, may be the cause of nagging backache, rheumatic pains, lumbago, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

FLETCHER STARTS WORK ON NEXT CENSUS BILL

Although Decennial Tabulation Is Three Years Away, Arrangements Already Under Way by Committee Chairman.

Plans for drafting the new decennial census bill for submission to the next session of congress were announced today from Washington, D. C., by Rep. Brooks Fletcher of Marion, chairman of the house census committee. Although the 75th congress adjourned only a few days ago and it is four months until the next term begins, Mr. Fletcher is already laying the groundwork for the bill authorizing the 1940 census.

In connection with the drafting of the bill, Mr. Fletcher said it will be necessary to keep both his Washington and Marion offices open during the recess. Other legislation being shaped up for the next term by various leaders regards wages and hours, crop insurance, anti-lynching, judicial reform, government reorganization and several other measures that were not considered at the last session, Mr. Fletcher said.

Long Study Necessary

The necessary legislation to provide for the next census will require weeks of preparation and consultation with many agencies of the federal government which are vitally affected by the census law, he said.

The categories in the scope of the census law are a census of population and surveys of business, manufacturing, irrigation, drainage, mines, employment and unemployment.

The latter classification involves one of the most important surveys ever made and accurate and scientific statistics on the employment situation will be compiled through a house to house canvass under the new act, Mr. Fletcher stated.

So that the new census bill may be made accurate and as dependable as humanly possible, Rep. Fletcher's census committee will have advice and counsel of the various governmental agencies which have particular problems to solve, and which can only be solved by scientific census data. These departments include the social security board, department of labor, central statistical board, WPA, public health service, department of agriculture, treasury, national resources committee, and a large number of city planning commissions. All of the work of these agencies is predicated on the census information that is made possible through a federal census enumeration.

Congress Districts Affected

Another factor of the census of population that involves the welfare of the country is the matter of apportionment of congressmen according to population. Under the present law, which congress may change at the next term when the census bill is written, there should be one congressman for every 280,674 people. Some states have already changed their political subdivisions to take care of the growth or decrease in population so far as representation in congress is concerned. The new census will accurately determine whether the membership of the house should be enlarged or decreased.

The new census law, Mr. Fletcher stated, will be passed through congress in 1938, the training of employes and preparation of census schedules will be carried on by the bureau of the census in 1939, and the actual house to house canvass and other necessary field work will begin promptly in January, 1940.

Troupe Proves Harmonica Real Musical Instrument

HARMONICA RASCALS IN COSTUME.

That the harmonica is a real musical instrument and not a toy, has been proven by Borah Minnevitch's Harmonica Rascals, diligently trained by the inimitable Minnevitch, stand alone, admired not only for their uncanny ability in extracting symphonic masterpieces from the simplest of all musical instruments, but also for the legions of enthusiasts they have rallied to the banner of the "mouth organ." They have played to vast audiences at home and abroad, and made their first motion picture appearance in the full-length feature picture, "One in a Million," Sonja Henie's starring vehicle.

There will be no advance in admission prices for the Rascals and a new Fred Stone picture, "Hideaway," Emma Dunn and Marjorie Lord head the supporting cast in the picture, in which the featured player appears as a shiftless ne'er-do-well.

THERE'S A LOT OF JEKYLL-HYDE AMONG GOLFERS

BY JOAN DURHAM
Associated Press Writer

It's a Dr. Jekyll-Mr. Hyde business—playing golf.

That's the way Mrs. Ray S. Fellows of Tulsa, Okla., president of the Women's Trans-Mississippi Golf association, looks at it.

Even your best friend may make the worst kind of a golf partner, Mrs. Fellows thinks, while your most objectionable enemy may be the best of opponents.

And Mrs. Fellows is not alone in her feeling.

It's all a matter of consideration for the other fellow.

The same people who lord it over a waiter in a public dining place bawl out their caddy on the club course. They expect him to wade into marshes and deep woods to find a ball they couldn't hope to find themselves—and then lambast him publicly because he doesn't.

All he can do is stand and take it.

The people who make the worst losers in poker games insist on talking or stalling until they unnerve every other player at the table.

Women Poor Sports

That is especially true of women. For women, in general, are poor sports on the golf links.

They waste many hours in actual tournament play deciding which club to use—and practicing with those clubs until their partners and opponents are ready to take advantage of the nearest sit down facilities.

They can't seem to understand that "keeping out of line" means just that—staying in a position entirely out of range while their opponent is making her putt. (That includes not standing in back of the player.)

Observe The Honor

In spite of all the rules and regulations about "observing the honor" they persist in forgetting that the player who wins a hole is entitled to tee off first on the next one.

In case of a "carry-over"—that is, a tie—the person who won the hole before is still entitled to the honor.

Many a woman golfer has unnerved her opponent by continually asking simple questions such as, "Haven't you changed your putting stance lately?"

And many a woman protagonist who wouldn't think of violating the greens rules by wearing high heels just doesn't bother to have her caddy replace divots—unless somebody is looking.

Arthur Vail of Cardington was removed to Mt. Carmel hospital in Columbus Tuesday for observation. He is seriously ill with a ruptured gall bladder.

Carrier Pigeon Gets Tired And Picks New Home

Someone is minus a carrier pigeon and two Marion county residents have an additional member of their household as a result.

Deputy Sheriff Marion Hinklin reported today that the pigeon "beamed" its way into the home of Claire Smith and his sister, Miss Georgia Smith, three miles northeast of Meeker Monday about 5:30 p. m.

The Smiths found the bird at their kitchen door when they investigated a scratching noise. They fed it, gave it shelter for the night and have been unable to make it leave since then, Hinklin said.

Several times they have taken the pigeon outside to make it fly away, but each time it has circled about and flown back into the house. The bird now has the free run of the kitchen and is treated as a favorite member of the family. It is very tame and balks at efforts to put it in a cage.

Hinklin said it is possible the bird became lost on one of its first flights, since it seems to be quite young and was nearly exhausted when found by the Smiths. An aluminum band on the right leg bears the words "Star" and the date of "August, 37." There is a white rubber band on the left leg, with the number "730" on the outside and "321" on the inner side.

YOUTHS FROM DISTRICT ACTIVE IN STATE FAIR

Will Take Prominent Part in Junior Division of State Farm Displays at Columbus Next Week.

Marion county will have 13 entrants and scores of visitors to the state junior fair which opens at Columbus Saturday and lasts until Sept. 3. They will be among approximately 25,000 young men and women who are expected to attend, either as participants or spectators.

Of the county 13 entrants, nine are boys and four are girls. Eight, including two girls are entered in livestock exhibits, one girl in health, one girl in clothing and three boys in livestock judging.

A Marysville girl and a Kenton boy will have prominent parts in the junior fair as members of the board of directors. The girl is Wanetta Kent, a 4-H member for seven years. She is serving on the fair board in charge of girls' 4-H clubs. In Union county she has completed 12 projects, been president of her club and represented her county at the junior fair four years ago.

Robert Mallow Kenton Member.

Robert Mallow is the Kenton member. Son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond A. Mallow, grange deputies of Hardin county, Robert has been assigned to direct juvenile grange activities at the fair. He is a member of the F. F. A. and in 1935 won second place in the state speaking contest. He is now vice president of the Ohio Association of Future Farmers of America.

Most of the entrants and spectators are expected to leave for the fair Saturday, some planning to stay all week and others only the one-day which is designated especially as junior fair day, according to Raymond W. Pifer, assistant county extension agent, who is aiding County Agent S. L. Anderson, in handling the fair entries locally.

The list of entrants follows—

She will compete Tuesday at 8:30 a. m. with girls from throughout the state for the title of the healthiest girl in Ohio and for a free trip to the National Boys and Girls club congress in December. She will be a sophomore at Green Camp High school this fall. Her rating in the examination here was 970 out of 1,000 points.

Clothing: Anna Jane Winters, 17, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Winters of near Caledonia, member of Kirkpatrick Ritzy Stitchers 4-H club, twelfth grade student at Caledonia school. She has entered the complete clothing contest, having made an entire wardrobe with the exception of purse, hat, shoes and stockings. Her dress is wine-colored silk crepe trimmed in beige satin and accessories are black. Her clothing will be worn and judged Tuesday at 1 p. m. She was recently selected county winner.

Livestock Team.

Livestock judging team: William Laucher, Donald Helby and Harold Denman, all of near Waldo and members of the Waldo Junior Feeders 4-H club. They recently competed in judging events at dairy day at Wooster. They are pupils of B. H. Good, vocational agriculture teacher at Waldo High school. Their competition will begin at 8:30 a. m. Monday. Winners receive a trip to the 1937 International Livestock Exposition at Chicago.

Livestock: Richard Schmidt of Agosta, Hereford steer, born May 1936; Helen Strine of Waldo R. D. No. 1, "Chub," an Angus steer born Sept. 10, 1936; Magdaline Strine, her sister, "Bob," Angus steer born Nov. 20, 1936; Vernon Geyer of Marion R. D. No. 5, Hereford steer born April 1936; Henry Nickel of Agosta R. D. No. 1, "American Lady," a Poland China spotted gilt born March 2, 1937.

Marion's Police Force Rates Low in Numbers

Marion's ratio of policemen to each 1,000 inhabitants is the lowest of any city between 25,000 and 50,000 population in Ohio and is the second lowest in that population group in the country, according to Uniform Crime Reports, a bulletin just issued by the federal bureau of investigation at Washington, D. C.

Marion has a police department of 16 men, or .5 for each 1,000 persons, while several Ohio cities in the same population group have from 1 to 1.2 policemen for each 1,000 inhabitants, the report shows.

Significance is given to the figures by a statement in the report that crime of all kinds was proportionately lower in cities having large police departments than in those with smaller ones.

An analysis, based on crime figures for 1936, showed that cities having an average of slightly more than two policemen for each 1,000 of population reported five murders for each 100,000 population, while cities having an average of approximately one policemen per 1,000 population had nearly twice that number of murders.

The same relationship was shown in figures for other crimes, such as robbery, assault, burglary and larceny.

The only American city of from 25,000 to 50,000 inhabitants which has a lower number of policemen for each 1,000 persons than Marion is Granite City, Ill., according to the report. The Illinois city is listed as having 11 policemen and a ratio of .4 for each 1,000.

East Cleveland, with 32 policemen, has a ratio of 1.3 for each 1,000 persons, the highest in Ohio, the report states. Next lowest to Marion is Barberton, with 14 policemen and a ratio of .5 for each 1,000 persons.

Ratios for other Ohio cities in the same population category include Lima, .7; Lorain, .7; Mansfield, .6; Middletown, 1; Newark, .6; Portsmouth, .8; Steubenville, .8; and Zanesville, .7.

A walk through the old cemetery brings to light many interesting facets of pioneer life in Marion and it awakens thought of the progress medicine has made toward lengthening the life years. Aside from the fact that the old cemetery was the spot where the victims of the cholera scourage of 1837 were buried, a preponderance of the stones still standing show that to have lived to be 40 or 50 years of age was to have lived a long life. Too many children died in the early days, is the thought that strikes a visitor. So many of the stones were erected to infants and to children not yet in their teens. Only a few marked the graves of persons who lived to be 70 or 80.

The old tombstones are mostly sandstone, granite and flagstone, with here and there a marble stone. A few bear Bible texts, and two of them are lavishly marked with the symbols of a secret order. A hand pointing heavenward, a willow tree, a full-blown rose, an open Bible are the most frequent decorations. On several the term "consort" is used in preference to "wife," and one bears the record of the death of a child bride of 15. Duplicate monuments, exactly alike except that one is cut deeper than the other, were raised to a man and there are two, one almost entirely obliterated, to a woman.

Stones are to be found to four doctors, Dr. J. T. Warner who died in 1851, Dr. James Livinston and his wife who died in 1835, Dr. Simeon Couch who died in 1826 and Dr. George Miller who died in 1825, and to children of two ministers, Rev. Simeon Rock and Rev. J. R. Johnson.

A number of bodies were removed from the cemetery when the present Marion cemetery was founded in 1837.

List of Those Buried.

Suspense.

THERE is division on the question of a special session of congress, as there is on almost everything else in politics.

For such a state of affairs, the country should be grateful.

This time a year ago some Americans had convinced themselves there never would be another regular session, or, if there were, that it would be an imitation of the German reichstag which used to vote Yes automatically until the dictatorship abolished it altogether.

That didn't happen. Congressmen suddenly rediscovered their own feet and began to stand on them. On several uproarious occasions they stood on the feet of others who had kidded themselves into believing they were immune to any such rough stuff.

The American government began to function in the good old way, with congressmen acting as though it meant something to represent their districts in the capital—something almost as important as to sit in the White House.

They became so individualistic that when they adjourned last week they still hadn't carried out the orders they had received from the executive mansion. That's why a special session is under consideration now. It's just about the most reassuring kind of political suspense there could be, under the circumstances

Mental Exercises.

THE policy established by the neutrality act, the government frankly explains, is not suitable for the undeclared Sino-Japanese war.

As the government sees it, the act is not for the purpose of maintaining neutrality, which is a vaguely defined point of international law, but for the purpose of keeping the United States out of war.

As they view the immediate situation, there is slight danger of the United States being embroiled through any causes which the neutrality act could avert. The present necessity is to preserve an appearance of impartiality, and that could not be done by invoking the neutrality act, because China has more to lose thereby than Japan.

The nub of the confusion, in other words, is the mistaken belief that neutrality and impartiality are one and the same thing in the conduct of international relations—that the way to be impartial is to remain aloof.

The statesmen who must wrestle with this question are more to be pitied than condemned for the mental exercises they are forced to take. It was foreseen that the neutrality act, due to the complexities of varying international situations, would mean different things in different cases.

The Sino-Japanese conflict has disclosed earlier than was expected how intricate and confusing the complexities were bound to be.

Hand-Me-Downs.

THE used battleship market is going to sit up and take nourishment if the proposed lease of six U. S. destroyers to Brazil means what is seems to mean.

Other South American governments with enough cash for a down payment and the urge to keep up with the Joneses may want to assemble their own little fleets. The U. S. navy, with 171 decommissioned ships gathering rust, will slap on some fresh paint and go after the business.

Ah, but competition. There's the rub. The boats would be leased, not sold. They would be subject to recall. Other countries in the naval race with the United States will be interested in that. They, too, have decommissioned fighting vessels they would rather lease than sell for junk.

If the practice became general, governments with large fleets would have a first and second line of "defense." There would be a race within the naval race. To keep pace with the United States, other countries would have to devise similar ways to get new ships and keep their old ones, too.

The sailor President in the White House, surrounded with ship models and pictures, has made politicians elsewhere seasick by remote control. There may be a Swiss navy yet.

Photographs of some of our male diplomats as they appeared at court functions in knee length trousers provide evidence that the country might be much more favorably represented by chorus girls.

This summer torridity sort of wears one to a frazzle but there's always the compensating possibility that the boss may think it's a result of overwork.

One could imagine nothing more difficult to comprehend than the feelings of the President should the new supreme court justice, by any strange turn of circumstances, join in a decision against the new deal.

Skipper Sopwith had the disadvantage of not being able to blame his defeat on a wet track.

New Deal Experimental Forces Now Turn Talents Toward Remaking Medical Profession.

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26 Physicians throughout the United States will be interested to learn of the new drive latest experiment, which may prove the entering wedge for 'socialized medicine' in America, some times called the placing of medical care on a "quantity production" basis.

Like all new deal "experiments," the plan to provide medical care by the group method is limited in scope at first. It is to apply for the present to the employes here of the Home Owners Loan corporation and the federal home loan bank board, but it is so set up that it can just as readily be extended to all the 117,000 federal employes here and the 700,000 or more government employes throughout the country.

Doctors have long suspected that the new deal would seek to introduce "socialized medicine," but assurances to the contrary have come as usual from time to time from high quarters. The importance of the new experiment will be minimized in official quarters so as to discourage opposition and the plan will be compared to various group health plans in private industry. But the new organization, nevertheless, is in directly in line with what has been urged by persons inside the administration who see the job possibilities and patronage potentialities of a medical bureaucracy in the government. The latest step, therefore, may be taken to mean that the campaign for "socialized medicine" has begun.

The objections to this form of medical care are numerous and the best testimony is that which comes from experts who have studied the health insurance systems abroad.

Thus, Sir E. Farquhar Buzzard, president of the British Medical association, said recently in a public address:

"The chief flaw in a badly organized service, such as that which has evolved in this country during the last century, is lack of time, and both the general practitioner and the consultant, in order to earn a living wage, are frequently obliged to undertake far more work than they can deal with efficiently in the hours at their disposal."

German Situation

Regarding Germany, Dr. Paul G. Frank, another authority, says, "For almost 30 years, I have worked as a German panel doctor under the conditions of compulsory health insurance, and for many years I was a member of the physicians committee. During this period I witnessed a deterioration of the medical profession. It came about by the removal of the sanctions of preferment by skill and the substitution of preferment to convenience."

The same line of reasoning is expressed by Dr. William J. Mayo of the Mayo brothers clinic in Minnesota who wrote recently:

"We of the medical profession are determined that we will not be subjected to political interference. We will not sacrifice the spiritual values of our profession for the small material gain held out to us by political and social experimenters who are attempting now to control the practice of medicine. We refuse to be dictated to by men who are not physicians, who do not understand the sacred obligation of physicians and their patients."

The way "socialized medicine" would develop would be to discourage younger men from going into the medical profession and take away from those who have built up a practice many of the patients who ordinarily come to them.

It is true a large number of doctors would have to be employed by the government in any national scheme of "socialized medicine," but the selection of these doctors by a political spoils system would only be a worse step than the application for government jobs of doctors not good enough to build for themselves a firm reputation and adequate practice in their own communities. If, for instance, all government employes in Washington were to be cared for medically under some sort of group plan run by the government, why should any good doctors stay here? Why should any new ones come here from the best medical schools to replace those who are retiring? Immediately there would be a destruction of incentive and a break-down in the quality of medical care available to the people of this whole community.

The new plan to be put into effect next month by "the Group Health association," among the Home Owners Loan corporation employes calls for payments of $3.30 a month for men with families and $2.20 a month for single persons.

"The service," it is promised by

A Woman of Power

Wife of Chiang Kai-Shek Disproves Tradition That Women Don't Count in Orient.

MADAME CHIANG KAI-SHEK, fragile, charming—a figure from a Chinese screen come to life—is the world's most powerful woman today.

Her husband is China's military and political "strong man." He owes much of his strength to his wife. Between them they hold much of the far east's fate in their hands. No other woman wields so much influence over the destiny of masses of human beings.

Before she married Chiang, Mei-ling Soong was just one of many Chinese girls who had come to the United States for an education. All three of Charles Soong's daughters were sent to Wesleyan college, Macon, Ga., to study. Mei-ling was the youngest.

Madame Chiang Kai-Shek

Their father, a graduate of Vanderbilt university, was a revolutionist and secretary-treasurer to Dr. Sun Yat Sen. "China's George Washington." Politics runs strong in the blood of the Soongs.

The eldest daughter, Ai-ling, married Dr. H. H. Kung, finance minister of the present Nanking government. The second daughter married Dr. Sun Yat Sen, himself, as an act of devotion to him in his old age. She is now, as his widow, a revered political figure, though estranged from the Nanking government over differences of policy.

The eldest brother of these three remarkable sisters—challenges to the tradition that in China girls aren't important—is T. V. Soong, former cabinet minister of the revolutionary government and one of China's ablest administrators.

Makes Her Choice.

When Mei-ling, after graduation from Wesleyan college and four brilliant years at Wellesley returned home, she could have had any man in China. She chose Chiang Kai-shek, a young soldier who already had divorced one wife. He dismissed two concubines only because Mei-ling, with her American ideas, wouldn't stand for them.

The Soongs were annoyed with the affair but they did not doubt that Mei-ling really loved this tough soldier who, many thought, was nothing more than another Chinese war lord. She saw in him things others had not seen.

"He has the courage of the soldier," she wrote later, "and the soul of a poet." In 1927, family objections having died down somewhat, she and Chiang were married in Shanghai first in a private Methodist ceremony (she later converted him to Methodism) then again in a magnificent ceremony at the Majestic hotel in the International Settlement before 3,000 guests. The same hotel, today, is in the midst of the battle area.

Close at Chiang's side through the turbulent years that followed Mei-ling has remained. She traveled with him to obscure and pestilential Chinese towns in his campaign against the Communist armies. She served tirelessly as a trusted secretary in a country where secretaries too often betray.

Acts As Guide.

She founded schools for children orphaned by China's perpetual wars. She looked after Chiang's health, made him take take care of himself. She converted him to Christianity, which he avowed in 1930.

It was Mei-ling, who pushed Chinese aviation to the fore, seeing to it that Chiang had the best available American plane for his rush trips about the vast country. She has been active in the development of China's military air force, and in civil aviation, flying fearlessly at all hours and under all conditions.

In 1935, with part of the army in revolt in Fukien, Madame Chiang flew over desperate mountain territory by night when Chiang went to suppress the revolt. She personally negotiated the surrender of some of the mutineers.

In Kiangsi once, she was at field headquarters with the general when sudden rifle fire rang out in the night. By feeble candlelight she quickly dressed and sorted out valuable papers and prepared to burn them if their camp should be captured. The hardships of a life of this kind are hard to associate with the picture book fragility of Madame Chiang.

In December of 1936, Chiang was seized and kidnaped by Chang Hsueh-liang, mutinous provincial general. Within the walls of Sianfu, Chiang lay captive, smoldering and refusing to listen to Chang's demands.

Nanking was terrified with its "strong man" a captive, and an attack was about to be launched on Sianfu, which would probably have brought death to Madame Chiang's husband, and launched China into another decade of civil war.

Makes Personal Plea.

With a pilot and one trusted adviser, Madame Chiang flew 700 miles from Nanking to Sianfu, and took her life in her hands to make a personal appeal to Chang. Several days were passed in tense negotiations, after which Chang's release was obtained free of obligation, and Chang actually returned to Nanking with him as a "prisoner." It may well be that the new China unity dates from that incident.

Madame Chang is in the midst of the fierce Chinese resistance in the present crisis. Whatever Chinese policy and actions arise from it will be in large part her doing. "I feel that God has given me a work to do for China," she wrote not long ago. Once a peasant girl in the French village of Domremy talked like that. They called her Joan of Arc.

Dictators and Presidents Define Democracy and All Have Explanation To Suit Their Fancies

BY DOROTHY THOMPSON

NEW YORK, Aug. 26—This question of what constitutes democracy—what form of government, what political procedures, and what social goal—is the question of the times in which we live. For it must have become apparent to all, that all modern governments call themselves democracies, although they share no common system of ideas. Russia calls itself an "economic democracy" and the only true people's government, and Mr. Browder calls American Stalinist Communism "Twentieth Century Democracy." Mr. Hitler informed the people of the United States in a broadcast early in his administration, that "Germany is the truest democracy in the world today, for nowhere is a greater percentage of the people behind their chosen leader," Mussolini assails "liberal democracy," but claims that the democratic principle of mass support is inherent in the Fascist system. And now, President Roosevelt, in the Roanoke Island speech, defines democracy as majority rule, pure and simple.

In that speech and the statement, the President breaks, it seems to me, with the American tradition and the American ideology, which are based on eighteenth century liberalism. He moves a step closer to the conception that democracy is rule by the masses. The implication is tremendous. For it is a simple fact that in the highly complicated modern world no political technique has yet been found, whereby the masses—or, to use the President's own words, "the majority"— can rule directly. The modern conception of rule by the masses is not the conception of self-government by the people. In practice, it amounts to ratification or rejection by the masses of programs conceived and put into operation from above. A ruler, or leader, presumes to know what the main objectives of the masses are. His election is taken to be a popular mandate to express those objectives in legislation. He asks for full authority for this purpose. And then, from time to time, he submits himself and his program to a popular plebiscite. If a majority ratifies it, he claims that the democratic principle is sustained.

In another article we shall consider in what direction this interpretation of democracy inevitably must move, and we shall consider how far in that direction this country already has moved. But today we are interested only in showing that this conception of democracy is not in the American tradition, and that it represents a radical, even a revolutionary break with that tradition. For the American tradition conceives of democracy not as something which functions periodically, in the form of ratifying or rejecting plebiscites but as something which functions continually; which derives authority, not from the majority, but from the whole people, which has its springs in a public opinion which shifts constantly, and has constant expression through free speech, a free press, and free assembly, which provides careful protection to minorities, and checks on majorities, in society, in the Constitution, and in the government itself; and which avows that every individual is invested with certain natural rights, which not even a majority of 99 per cent can divest him of.

From the founding of this republic until the twentieth century and until the present time, this thesis has been accepted by all American statesmen, including those of the left, and those of the right. In his Roanoke Island speech the President—by the strongest inference—claimed Thomas Jefferson as the advocate of uncheoked majority rule. But these words are Jefferson's:

"The will of the majority is in all cases to prevail, but that will, to be rightful, must be reasonable; the minority possess equal rights, which equal laws must protect, and to violate which would be oppression."

And Jefferson plainly saw that unchecked majority rule, and the concentration of power in the hands of the executive with or without the support of the majority, would amount to despotism. He said so:

"All the powers of government—legislative, executive and judiciary—result to the legislative body. The concentrating of these in the same hands is precisely the definition of despotic government. It will be no alleviation that these powers will be exercised by a plurality of hands, and not by a single one. One hundred and seventy-three despots would surely be as oppressive as one. Let those who doubt it turn their eyes on the Republic of Venice. . . . An elective despotism was not the government we fought for, but one which should not only be founded on free principles, but in which the powers of government be so divided and balanced among several bodies . . . that no one could transcend their legal limits without being effectually checked and restrained by the others."

Nowhere has the doctrine that unchecked majority rule is democracy been more brilliantly or convincingly attacked than by James Madison, "the father of the Constitution," who took up this whole fallacy at length in the tenth paper of "The Federalist."

"Complaints are everywhere heard . . . that the public good is disregarded in the conflicts of rival parties and that measures are too often decided, not according to the rules of justice and the rights of the minor party, but by the superior force of an interested and overbearing majority.

. . . "A factious spirit has tainted our public administrations. By a

UNPALATABLE SOULS: So then because thou art lukewarm and neither cold nor hot, I will spue thee out of my mouth.—Revelation 3:16.

In New York

BY O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Aug. 26—While the legitimate stage is striving to fight every inch of the way for existence a tartness has developed between the producers and critics that makes an open issue. The producers say they have a legal right to bar destructive critics and they do it.

Alexander Woollcott and Percy Hammond are expected again for what producers said was a great deal of good. Even Brock Pemberton, who used to be a dramatic editor, is outspoken in the belief that some of the critics have gone too far—and should be barred if the producers see fit barring them.

Perhaps the greatest offender from the managerial standpoint is George Jean Nathan and he seldom turns in a favorable report. It is a complaint of many producers that many shows are knocked in the head at premieres before they have a chance to jell.

However, the critics have their side and are standing pat. They are agreed that any censorship over their critiques will not only be opposed by newspaper editors, but will end the usefulness of reviewing. There may be some interesting showdowns the coming season.

Beheading The Devil

By The Associated Press.

PEIPING, North China—"Beheading the opium devil" is the picturesque climax to opium burning ceremonies in China.

A large decapitating knife is used to slice each package of raw opium before it is thrown in the ceremonial fire. Opium is too sticky to burn well unless cut into small pieces.

A Costly Bonfire.

Peiping police a short time ago burned publicly more than 22,000 ounces of raw opium, morphine, heroin, cocaine and other narcotics together with thousands of opium pipes, lamps and other accessories valued at many thousands of dollars. They represented a year's seizures.

Conducted on China's national Opium Suppression Day, the ceremony marked the anniversary of China's first and most disastrous narcotic bonfire. In 1830 Commissioner Lin Tzehsu of Canton plunged China into war with England by burning British opium.

As a fortune in narcotics went up in flames Chinese in Peiping watched a dense pall of smoke drift over the Forbidden City nearby, former home of the deposed Manchu dynasty which first allowed opium to come to China.

Put Onus On Japan.

Just before the shooting began in North China a survey made for the Chinese national government at Nanking reported that the Japanese concession at Tientsin was the center of a vast narcotics trade. More than 10 syndicates were operating there, it was said, supplying the world with drugs. Users in the United States were listed among the biggest customers.

The Nanking publicity report charged that Japanese authorities apparently condoned the drug traffic but would not permit narcotics to be shipped through Japan on the way to America. Consequently, it said, most of it was routed through Shanghai.

Thus, it was asserted, when Americans read in their newspapers that "another shipment of narcotics from China has been seized" the narcotics probably had originated in Tientsin.

Some commentators have read between the lines of Secretary Hull's pronouncements a desire to see an existing treaty, guaranteeing China's territorial integrity, observed.

Japan Trade Greater

On Capitol Hill and elsewhere, there are those who argue strenuously that it is not for the United States to reckon who gets hurt by the neutrality act. "Our task, they contend, is merely to sever all economic ties that might pull us into the conflict.

While some contend that stopping trade might aggravate any war danger rather than lessen it, the "mandatory neutrality" bloc thinks otherwise. Basing their argument on the theory that economic links drew us into the World war, they say it would be better to suffer huge losses in trade than huger damages in war.

But Secretary Roper declared "we do not want to sacrifice any proper trade relationships." The United States sold Japan $204,000,000 of goods last year and bought $171,-000,000 worth in return. Exports to China totaled $46,800,000 and imports $74,000,000.

Act Invoked Once

Raw cotton and scrap iron for Japan, airplanes for China, and gasoline and oil for both, led the exports. All easily are war materials which the President has power to embargo. But would southern cotton planters, for example, relish restrictions, on trade in a year when the cotton crop is a mammoth one?

The present neutrality act has been invoked once. It first was called on to pinch-hit for peace in the Spanish civil war, two days after an angry and dissatisfied senate and house finally adopted it on April 29 rather than have no such law at all.

An airplane, tuned up and propeller turning before the final vote, rushed the measure to President Roosevelt aboard the U. S. S. Potomac in the Gulf of Mexico. Mr. Roosevelt interrupted his fishing vacation to give it immediate attention, and two hours later his signature put into effect the "peace act of 1937."

correspondent on the war front, was jolted but uninjured when huge Japanese shell splinters smashed into his automobile, which was flying the American flag.

J. H. McKinnon of Houston, Tex., manager of the large American-owned Poplar Groves Dairy Farms, on the outskirts of Shanghai, saved his life by feigning death under a hail of Japanese aerial bombs and machine gun fire.

Attacked by Planes

A squadron of Japanese warplanes attacked the farms for the second time within a week, almost annihilating the dairy's herd of 400 pedigreed American cattle.

Fleeing the bombing, McKinnon leaped into an enormous crater left from the first Japanese air raid. He lay motionless as though dead until the Japanese planes, which had dived to less than 500 feet above him, flew off.

McKinnon protested to American consular authorities against the repeated Japanese bombardments.

He and American owners of the property were unable to explain why the farm, over which large American flags are flying, should be a target for the Japanese.

A Japanese embassy spokesman asked concerning reparation, replied:

"We have taken great pains to protect foreign property. So far as American property has been damaged, the Japanese army will continue this careful attitude."

Deplores Sir Hughe's Case

The spokesman deplored the Japanese air attack on Sir Hughe and advanced the theory that the pilot mistook his blue and red British flag for a Chinese emblem. He declared the ambassador was at fault for not having a flag large enough to drape over the whole roof of his automobile.

Although possessing woefully inadequate resources, international relief committees plunged into the overwhelming problem of alleviating even slightly, the dangers of hunger and disease hovering over war-torn Shanghai.

There are at least half a million destitute war refugees roaming its streets, among them a sprinkling of foreigners.

The emergency relief committee broadcast a world-wide appeal for the war victims here and elsewhere in China.

500,000 Dependents

The most acute problem is to save the lives of these 500,000 utterly dependent refugees, stranded hungry, homeless and penniless.

But there are another 500,000 who, although they have some resources, must be cared for before they, too, are thrown on the mercy of relief. Most of them are being evacuated to the south on the fastest ships available. The Japanese have indicated a willingness to assure the safety of refugee ships passing their blockade.

The relief committee already has established 400 concentration camps in sheltered sections, each housing from 200 to 15,000 refugees.

Sanitation is virtually non-existent and food is meager, creating an increasing danger of epidemics. Food rations, costing about two cents a day for each person, are a bowl of rice and cabbage gruel with an occasional trace of meat.

So far the only contributions have been about $100,000 and two truckloads of cabbage from the Japanese consul general, Suemasa Okamoto, who said he wanted to assist Chinese and foreign "innocents" of the war.

The Chinese, although on the verge of starvation, refused to touch the cabbage when they learned its source.

Britain Promises "Appropriate" Action

By The Associated Press

LONDON, Aug. 26—The British government announced tonight it was preparing to deal "appropriately" with the Japanese government on the wounding, by Japanese fliers, of British Ambassador Sir Hughe Knatchbull-Hugessen near Shanghai.

This "appropriate action" will be taken as soon as his majesty's government obtains "further information" on the grave international incident.

That was the gist of a foreign office communique issued after Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden had returned to his desk from holiday to take charge of the situation.

Eden was described authoritatively as having taken the air raid incident under "very grave consideration."

the National Education association.

After leaving the Marion school, which was in existence here from 1887 to about 1892, Dr. Offenhauer studied at Otterbein college, Harvard and Columbia universities. He began teaching in Mercer county in 1899, later serving as Erie county school superintendent and Sandusky and Mt. Vernon High school principal before going to Lima. He was a Lima High school principal for six years before becoming superintendent.

Dr. Offenhauer is married and has two sons and a daughter.

The Marion Normal school, where Dr. Offenhauer received his first higher education, was located in a frame building on the northeast corner of East Center street and Franconia avenue, other former students recalled today.

The school offered training courses for teachers and business students, as well as courses in science and music. At one time, it is reported, the school had an enrollment reaching into the hundreds.

A dispute among faculty members over the selection of a new president of the school is said to have been one of the principal causes of the school's demise. A. W. Yale, whose present address could not be learned, and D. A. Black of Cleveland, were earlier heads of the school. Mr. Black later taught at the Silver street school and was superintendent of the county children's home at one time.

Romance Rough On Cupid Amid DeMolay Boys

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, O., Aug. 26—"Chief cupid" of the DeMolay date bureau is in a predicament.

The order, composed mainly of sons of members of the Masonic lodge, opened its 13th annual state convention today and many early arrivals asked James McKechnie to arrange the same dates as last year.

McKechnie and the bureau take pride in matching weights and dispositions between out-of-town delegates and Cleveland girls, but he said that while he arranged those he could, many of the girls were either married or engaged.

However, he reported finding 800 young women of charm and dignity who consented to cheer lonely delegates on a moonlight lake cruise tomorrow night and to the ball Saturday.

Robert L. Wallace of East Liverpool, state master councilor, said 1,000 delegates would be on hand for the opening banquet and an additional 500 would arrive tomorrow.

SPANISH WAR VETS INSTALL OFFICERS

Next Rally To Be at Portland, Ore.; A. J. Kennedy of New York Leader.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 26—United Spanish War Veterans held the final meeting of their 1937 encampment today, installing officers to serve until the next encampment to be held in Portland, Ore.

Heading the veterans was Alfred J. Kennedy of New York. Mrs. Mary McGauley of New York was named to head the auxiliary.

Many of the delegates started home last night following the annual parade and the all-states dinner.

Affiliated organizations which named new officers included the Military Order of the Serpent, Albert L. Harriman of Portland, Ore., supreme gu gu grandisimo; the Swamp Military Order of Lizards, Henrietta Lymott of Miami, Fla., gila monster; and the 18th U. S. Infantry association, Dolph Lyon of Kansas City, Neb., commander.

Closing business of the encampment included adoption of resolutions calling for universal conscription in war, "a powerful navy, an unsurpassed air force and an adequate army for self-defense."

The universal conscription resolution, submitted by Col. W. P. Grayson of Savannah, Ga., deplored activities designed to induce youths to refuse to bear arms in defense of the nation.

CHINESE FALL BACK ON HONGKEW FRONT

Japanese Await Arrival of Regulars Before Resuming Offensive.

BY JAMES A. MILLS
Associated Press Writer

ON THE HONGKEW BATTLE FRONT, OUTSIDE SHANGHAI, Aug. 26—My own observation of the battle areas in Japanese-occupied Hongkew, north of the Shanghai international settlement, verified today that the Chinese defenders have fallen back on a broad front.

Their main lines are pitched now well beyond Shanghai university, on the Shanghai side of the Whangpoo river north of the embattled city.

Visiting the front lines under armed, military escort, I found the enemies facing each other across a shallow "no man's land" only about 150 yards wide. But there was almost no fighting.

The Japanese bluejackets seemed near exhaustion after more than two weeks of incessant battle. It was evident that they were content merely to hold their positions until newly-landed army reinforcements could take over their lines.

Then, officers said, the Japanese would launch a major scale offensive. A Japanese commander told me, however, that at least another month must pass before any decisive results could be achieved by either side in Hongkew.

Despite Chinese claims to the contrary, I can report on the basis of my own inspection that the University of Shanghai, operated by American Baptists, is virtually intact. The only damage to its buildings, the effect of shell splinters, can easily be repaired.

Moreover, most other foreign buildings, of any importance escaped with major damage although they were in the thick of some of the heaviest big gun duels.

Elsewhere in once-populous and thriving Hongkew, however, whole square miles are blackened wastes because of artillery devastation and deliberately set fires. Indeed, this once prosperous industrial district, resembles sections of Flanders during the World war.

KENT U. SALARIES HELD UP BY ERROR

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 26—Because the legislature failed to appropriate student fees for that purpose, Kent State university's budget was found short today of about $150,000 for salaries. The omission was an oversight but Atty. Gen. Herbert S. Duffy ruled that the general appropriation bill does not appropriate the fees for any purpose and that they must remain in a special fund until the legislature appropriates them. The university, however, will have sufficient money to pay salaries until the legislature corrects the error.

Twenty-year-old Elaine Riley, competing as "Miss East Liverpool," won second place.

JAPAN IGNORES U. S. PROPOSAL FOR PEACE

Declares Foreign Powers Do Not Understand Nipponese Position.

By The Associated Press

TOKYO, Aug. 26 — Premier Prince Fumimaro Konoye declared today Japan did not consider American and British proposals to end the Sino-Japanese war of much importance.

But at the same time Foreign Minister Koki Hirota instructed the Japanese ambassador to China, Shigeru Kawagoe to extend Japan's warmest sympathy to Sir Hugh Knatchbull-Hugessen, the British ambassador, who was wounded gravely by Japanese airplane bullets at Shanghai today.

Referring by name to United States Secretary of State Hull and his expressed wish that both China and Japan cease fighting, and to the British proposal to create a neutral zone around Shanghai, the premier said:

"I think all these are the result of the powers' lack of proper understanding of Japan's position. Japan does not attach much importance to these proposals from foreign powers."

The premier added that he expected repercussions of the war abroad would result in further moves by foreign powers.

PORTSMOUTH UNION HEARING RESUMED

By The Associated Press

PORTSMOUTH, O., Aug. 26—With the opening hearings marked by sharp cross-fire of counsel, testimony was resumed before Common Pleas Judge William R. White today on the plea of the Williams Manufacturing Co. and about 370 employes for a temporary injunction to restrain the United Shoe Workers of America from interfering with workers.

GRANGE CHIEF CITES DANGER OF SURPLUS

By The Associated Press

ROCKFORD, Ill., Aug. 26—Louis J. Taber, master of the National Grange, told approximately 60,000 persons from three states here yesterday that "too large a crop surplus in 1938" would bring falling prices and reduced purchasing power.

Taber addressed farm families from Illinois, Wisconsin, and Iowa at the Burritt Orpheum's 27th annual Trail Bridge picnic which sponsors termed "the world's largest outing."

"The farmer must organize and fight to put his agricultural house in order and see to it that good prices and good yields do not again stimulate production and bring on a cycle of surpluses, low prices and low purchasing power," Taber said.

RAILROAD MEN CALL STRIKE FOR SEPT. 6

$6.56; through freight brakemen, $5.15.

Local freight conductors, $7.11; local freight brakemen, $5.98.

Yard foremen, $7.14; yard helpers, $6.62.

Switch tenders, $5.07.

Three weeks of conferences between brotherhood representatives and a committee of 15 acting for 86 major railroads ended yesterday in a flat rejection of the unions' petition for a 20 per cent pay hike.

Union spokesmen said a strike call had been sanctioned by 97 per cent of the workers in the event a satisfactory adjustment was not obtained.

At Washington, spokesmen for the national mediation board said they had not been advised officially of the breakdown in negotiations and would intervene only at the request of either group.

Federal mediation would automatically postpone a strike for more than 30 days. The national mediation board, failing to arbitrate the dispute, may request the President to create an emergency arbitration committee. The committee must report within 30 days and neither side may take action until a 30-day period has elapsed after its decision.

Chairman T. A. Enochs of the carriers' committee said railroads' financial condition precluded the granting of wage increases. It had been estimated a 20 per cent wage boost would add $116,000,000 annually to operating costs, of which $2,000,000 would be for extra social security taxes and $4,000,000 for extra retirement fund taxes.

A few hours after Enoch's announcement, the Pullman Co. disclosed it had signed a working agreement with the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters which assured 8,000 a $12 a month wage increase.

ed the possibility of a permanent split within the Democratic party, forecasting that it would "continue as the progressive and liberal party of our country."

King's statement came on top of an assertion by Democratic Leader Barkley of Kentucky, that the Democratic party had beaten off "attempts to divide or weaken it," and a "no reprisal" edict from Democratic Chairman Farley.

The postmaster general suggested, however, in a press conference yesterday the possibility of reprisals from the voters against senators and congressmen who had failed to support the President.

So far as the administration is concerned, Farley said, "there will be no reprisals." But he added, "we have no control of the voters who want to approve or disapprove any action."

He laughed off as "foolish" a question as to whether the President could be renominated. Likewise, he called "silly" forecasts by National Chairman John M. Hamilton that the Republicans would make gains in next year's elections.

ROOSEVELT SIGNS BILL TO PLUG LEAKS

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26—President Roosevelt signed today the measure to close loopholes in the income tax law.

The measure, requested by the President to curb what he termed tax evasion and avoidance, is expected by experts to increase tax revenues by from $75,000,000 to $100,000,000 a year.

The White House made public a letter from Acting Secretary Taylor of the treasury saying his department was "happy to recommend prompt approval of this bill which will operate to close a number of serious loopholes in the revenue laws through which large amounts of revenue have been lost and still larger amounts would have escaped in the future."

LEGLESS SWIMMER CONQUERS TIDES

By The Associated Press

KINGSTON, N. Y., Aug. 26—Twice beaten back by incoming tides, Charles Zimmy, 48-year-old legless swimmer, neared the halfway mark today on his attempted non-stop Albany to New York swim.

Three days after slipping, grease-plastered, into the chill waters of the Hudson river at Albany Monday night, Zimmy passed Saugerties for the second time last night and continued slowly down the river.

He reached there yesterday morning, but heavy tides caught him and carried him six miles upstream toward Catskill before he could begin again to make headway. He lost another mile to the river on his first day out, only a few miles south of Albany.

PEER SHOCKS HOUSE OF LORDS!

Britain's house of lords was given a severe shock when youthful Lord Moray of Scotland rose to denounce the English divorce laws which are of the most rigid type. Explaining that he had married an American girl, the former Barbara Murray, in Paris, and could obtain a divorce in France, Scotland or United States, enabling him to discuss the issue from a pure academic standpoint, Lord Moray threw the seats assembly into further turmoil when he lighted a cigaret, an unprecedented action.

TOWNSHEND AND LORAIN

The plat of the city of Lorain was filed with the county commissioners on July 16, 1834. The mouth of the Black river had long offered an inviting location for community life to Indian and settler. A great shipbuilding center, location of important iron and steel plants and a port of great possibilities because of the natural harbor, Lorain has become a city of about 50,000 persons—double the population of Elyria, the seat of the county government.

The late Dr. N. S. Townshend, member of the legislature, congressman and professor of agriculture at Ohio State university, whose home for many years was at Avon, near Lorain, arrived as a young English boy four years before Lorain was platted.

Issue Will Commemorate 150th Anniversary of Constitution.

Thirty thousand of the sesquicentennial stamps to be issued next month in commemoration of the signing of the Constitution have been requested by Postmaster L. L. Lamborn for the Marion post office.

The stamp, which is of the three-cent denomination, will first be offered for sale Sept. 17, at Philadelphia, and available at other post-offices as soon thereafter as stock can be printed and distributed, the postal department announces.

Below is a white ribbon panel with folded ends containing the inscription, "Signing of the Constitution—In the Philadelphia Convention, Sept. 17, 1787, Independence Hall." Opposite this panel are the dates 1787 and 1937. In an upright panel at the left edge of the stamp is a reprodentation of the Roman fasces, symbol of power, and in a corresponding panel at the right is a reproduction of the flaming torch, emblem of enlightenment.

This cable ... passed under the rail of the lower deck astern, an out-of-the-way part of the ship where no watchman was likely to be missing.

"Will you stay in the skiff while I climb aboard?" he asked.

"Can't I come with you?"

"You couldn't climb over this cable."

She drew a long breath to steady herself. "Very well, I will wait."

Neill tied the skiff to the bunch of piles and, divesting himself of jacket and boots, stood on the seat and sprang for the cable over his head, his legs kicking in the air.

"Somebody is watching us!" she whispered.

The way seemed endless and he slowed down more and more as his arms tired. It required a powerful effort of the will to cover the last few yards. Finally he was able to grasp the rail and draw himself up.

In Stocking Feet

He found himself on a little working deck aft, much cluttered with coiled hawsers and the steam steering gear of the vessel. In order to get forward, he had to climb a ladder. This brought him to the upper promenade deck. It was an endless and ghostly promenade now, lined with dark windows that were like watching eyes. He tried every door that opened on deck, but all were locked. He crossed over to the outermost vessel.

Had anybody approached, there was no cover anywhere in the promenades, and he ascended by a deck ladder to the boat deck. Here with the boats hanging from the davits, the ventilators and innumerable other objects, he had plenty of cover. In his stocking feet he went noiselessly from shadow to shadow.

The vessel was the largest of the four and from the boat deck he overlooked the other ships. He searched the decks for any glimmer of light that might reveal a watchman on his rounds. Nothing showed. The windows in the captain's quarters on the first ship were now as dark as the rest. The four great hulks lay under the stars like ships of the dead.

At the forward end of the boat deck he descended two ladders to the main deck, and explored as well as he was able in the dark. There was no sound except the endless gentle lapping of the water against the steel hulls. From this deck there was a wooden gangway over to the next vessel.

Returning to the promenade deck, Neill was able to search along the port side with his flashlight since he was hidden here both from the other ships and the shore. On a ring-buoy hanging from the rail he read her name: Abraham Lincoln. He saw several odd-shaped bundles against the wall and found to his joy that they were Jacob's ladders. A way of getting Janet safe aboard.

But first he felt he must satisfy himself as to how much watching was done aboard these ships at night. He crept across the gangway to the next ship and explored the deck, watching and listening, taking advantage of every bit of cover; then to the next, and finally to the one nearest shore. He knew this vessel was inhabited.

She was of an older type of construction and had two promenade decks, upper and lower. From the lower deck the stairway led down to the small boats. Neill crouched at the corner and, peering around, stretched his ears to listen.

He heard a gentle snoring. He crept forward, pressing his body against the wall, pausing between each step to listen. Dimly he made out the shape of a deck chair before him with a man's body in it, relaxed. The watchman.

Another Skiff

Noiselessly he backed away around the corner, and made haste to return across the four decks joined by gangplanks. He figured that he could have Janet aboard in a few minutes, and certainly he would get no better opportunity than now while the watchman was taking a nap.

He unrolled the Jacob's ladder and, lashing the end to the rail, lowered it overboard. Stripping to his underclothes, he stuffed shirt and breeches behind the other ladders, and went overside. At the bottom of the ladder he let himself noiselessly into the water, and struck out towards the spot where he had left the skiff.

When the little bat loomed before him a sudden fear gripped him because he couldn't see Janet's figure outlined against the night sky. The skiff seemed empty. He caught hold of the gunwale and pulled himself up. "Janet!"

She answered him from the bottom of the skiff in a scarcely audible voice: "Neill!...Oh, Neill!"

He hastily climbed in. "What's the matter, Jen?...I can't touch you because I'm dripping wet. Did anything happen?"

"Somebody is watching us!" she whispered.

"How could that be out here in the dark? What makes you think so?"

"I saw him, Neill. Another skiff stole up. It came so quietly I didn't hear anything. I turned my head and there it was. Quite close. With a single figure in it. Watching. I thought maybe you had got a boat somewhere and I spoke your name....He never answered...."

"Did he speak at all?"

"No. Just faded into the dark-

Janet and Neill board and explore the black ship, tomorrow.

Marriage Meddlers

BY ADELE GARRISON

Queen Olga Asks to Be Left Alone With Visitors.

I WAS almost guilty of an exclamation of surprise as I saw the dethroned Olga of Transcaukia propped against the pillows of the hospital bed to which Lillian and I had been summoned by Mary, at the queen's request.

When I had last seen her, on the deck of Philip Veritzen's yacht, to which my father's men had brought her after they had crushed the conspiracy against her and had saved her and her daughter, Olina, from a horrible death, she had been only the wraith of a woman. She had been soiled, dishevelled, encumbered, looking her real age and many years added. The contrast was all the more marked, for she had always been noted for being able to subtract twenty or more years from her appearance.

But on this later day — and I guessed that with natural feminine recollections of her appearance upon that occasion, she had taken particular pains to erase the memory of it from our minds—she was a regal creature, indeed. Known as one of the most adept in cosmetic lore of the fashionable European world, she had patently used every resource at her command to enhance the classically perfect features famous through Europe.

Glamorous Queen

The result was marvelous. She looked like a beautiful, exquisitely-groomed woman of forty, with all the allure that is supposed to invest women of that age who have kept their charm. I wondered vaguely if Philip Veritzen had yet seen her thus "full panoplied for conquest," or if she was deliberately letting him keep the disillusioning vision he had had upon the boat.

I had guessed that much of the personal romantic feeling with which he had invested this queen, who had been the hopeless love of his youth, had vanished incontinently when he had seen her that memorable night as, frankly, an old woman. The queen was noted for her keen mentality and perceptions.

Asks Mary to Leave

Had she noticed his feeling, and how did she intend to punish him for it? I did not believe a spoiled regal beauty such as Olga had been all her adult life could bear to let a man who had loved her waver for even a moment in his allegiance.

I brought myself up with a round turn. There was no scintilla of proof that she knew Philip Veritzen...I thought you would never come."

Mary stood for a moment irresolute, then said: "Will you please remain outside for that time? If I need you before I will touch the bell. If not, please do not come back for the half hour."

Queen Olga spoke sharply.

"There is nothing you need to do for me for the next half hour, child."

"No, Your Majesty."

"Then will you please remain outside for that time? If I need you before I will touch the bell. If not, please do not come back for the half hour."
